Decision made: Build new high school

Town advances to Schematic Design Phase

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - State Treasurer Steven Grossman, Chairman of the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) and Katherine Craven, MSBA Executive Director, announced late last week that the MSBA Board of Directors voted to proceed into schematic design for a new Wilmington High School. The board unanimously approved a plan for new construction on the existing site.

"I'm excited," Superintendent Joanne Benton told the Crier. "This is a huge milestone."

The Board of Directors of the MSBA made the vote during its July 27 meeting. The Schematic Design phase is the next step toward potential funding. Before incentives, the reimbursement rate for Wilmington stands at 48.47 percent.

According to the MSBA, the estimated total construction costs for the new high school is $63,477,467, which translates to $330 per square foot. The addition and renovation option also submitted by the building committee and analyzed by the MSBA came in almost $2 million higher at $65,039,781, which translates to $334 per square foot. Once the schematic design is accepted by MSBA a final cost estimate will be developed, which will go to town meeting and the ballot box for voter approval.

"This is a very exciting stage in the MSBA process. The schematic designs that will be produced will give us our first look at the improved Wilmington High School. They will help us narrow the scope and budget of the project so that we can be sure the final product is efficient, sustainable and affordable," said Grossman.

"The schematic designs that will be produced will give the MSBA and Wilmington a better idea of the potential budget for the new high school," stated Craven.

"We have worked diligently with Wilmington and I look forward to continuing our work with them during this next stage in the process to replace the existing school with a new school that meets MSBA guidelines," added Craven.

Benton, who attended the MSBA meeting, reported that the Board approved Wilmington's preferred option unanimously - new construction on the existing site.

Now the Town of Wilmington will work in collaboration with the MSBA to produce detailed renderings to determine a mutually agreed upon project scope and budget. The agreed upon design will be for 960 students in grades 9 through 12.

Enrollment in 2010-2011 at the high school was 980 students, but population and enrollment studies show decreasing enrollment in Wilmington and across the Commonwealth.

The design also sets the square footage of the new high school at 192,443 square feet. The square footage of

A soldier laid to rest

Family, friends, and a grateful community say goodbye

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Family and friends gathered for a moving tribute and final farewell to U.S. Army Specialist Christopher Crosby, 23, a Wilmington native. The Patriot Guard Riders led the procession from Nichols Funeral Home to St. Thomas of Villanova Church and then again to Wildwood Cemetery where this young man was buried with full military honors.

Friends and members of the public wishing to honor Crosby and his family gathered early at the church. A member of the Military Friends Foundation handed out flags to the mourners who stood quietly on one side of the driveway in front of the church while a group from the Patriot Guard Riders lined the opposite side, back to the street, with Old Glory flying proudly in a gentle breeze.

When the procession reached St. Thomas, an honor guard and pallbearers carried the flag-draped casket into the church, followed by family members and mourners as "Let There Be Peace On Earth" began to play.

Father Philip Earley led the moving ceremony. Michael Ricci, Crosby's Godfather, read the first reading followed by the 23rd Psalm and the second reading by Don Cowden, a friend.

Crosby's sisters Kelly and Kristin, along with cousins Jenna and Lindsay Conroy were gift bearers in the service. Margaret McKenna read the eulogy, a letter from Christopher. The final hymn was "Irish Blessing" followed by the Recessional "God Bless America."

Pallbearers included Kyle Conroy, Matt Kincaid, Brett Peterson, Alex Chalmers, Jon Kelley, Mark Giordano, P.J. Russo, Tony Karalekas, Nick

Gustin, and Brian Wilson.

Following the service, residents, many with children, gathered on the Town Common to show their respect as the funeral processions left the church on the way to Crosby's final resting place. The procession took a route past the Crosby home before proceeding to Wildwood Cemetery and underneath an enormous flag held by two ladder trucks.

Several prayers were said at the cemetery, followed shortly by a three-volley salute by military honor guard and the playing of taps. The honor guard then folded the flag that had been draped over the casket and one soldier presented the flag to the family.

Mourners placed red and white carnations on the casket one by one as each said a

Wilmington native publishes novel

By DANA BURNHAM

WILMINGTON - Although she now lives in Newton, Robin Stratton has her roots in Wilmington, having moved to the town with her family in 1971. And her parents still live here. A graduate of Wilmington High School, Stratton now makes a living as a writer and published author. In fact, Blue Mustang Press has just published her latest novel, "On Air."

In Stratton's words, the book is "a coming-of-age story of a guy who is 50; a guy who has lost his youth and is trying to figure out what the universe will give him in return."

The publisher's website gives this synopsis: "During the 1980s, Eric Storm was Boston's hottest radio personality, but 20 years later he's a full-grown beagle heavier, divorced, and out of work. Complicating matters is Ma, whose sudden deterioration frightens him. For his whole life she has loved him, shouted at him, praised him, criticized him, and driven him completely nuts, and he has done the same to her; a comfortable set of dynamics that has worked fine for almost fifty years.

Unprepared for his new role as caregiver, he responds by becoming obsessed with a sexy young street musician who's probably way out of his league. Then Ma slips into a coma, and the diary she kept years ago reveals a shocking truth about the father he never met."

Author Robin Stratton

Stratton came up for the plot for the book when she was dating someone who had an aggravating relationship with his mother. The mother was "a very dear woman, but overly-sensitive, yet also

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

The march to Lexington and Concord

By CAPT. LARZ NEILSON

(Originally published in 1984 © Town Crier)

"Listen my children and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere."

So sung the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. His was a song of a solitary rider, riding off into the night to warn that the British troops were on the march. To warn that, "the fate of the nation was riding that night."

A professor of language at Harvard, a fond parent and historian, Longfellow sang of Hiawatha and Evangeline, and of the Finnish and Norse Eddas and Sagas. But this tale of Paul Revere, as wonderful as it is, over emphasizes the efforts of that one man.

Paul Revere was alone, yes. But there were others who rode that night to warn that British troops were marching to Concord. Who warned, for instance, the militia and Minutemen of Danvers, in Essex County? It is part of the record that men from Danvers fought the retreating Redcoats in what is now Arlington. Who warned them in time for them to march and fight?

A company of New Hampshire troops arrived in Cambridge that same night, not in time to fight, but to start, with others, the siege of Boston. They had walked and run over 50 miles through Haverhill and probably down the Andover Road through Wilmington to join the fighting. Who warned them?

The various companies of militia and the Minutemen of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay were organized and ready for any march of the British troops. There was a Committee of Safety, which directed the military affairs of Massachusetts, and there were committees of correspondence in all the towns of Massachusetts, which kept the people aware of the latest British blunders, thanks to the pen of that consummate politician, Samuel Adams.

Thomas Hutchinson, who had been the Royal Governor of the Colony of the current building is 154,000.

Dore and Whittier will remain as the project architects for the building design and working toward the project scope and cost. The building committee will submit the schematic design back to the MSBA in November for authorization on the 16th of that month.

The next meeting of the Wilmington High School Building Committee is Thursday, August 18, at 6:30 p.m. in Town Hall, Room 9. The meeting is open to the public.

Special features of the new high school will also include an outdoor classroom on the roof, space for learning communities by utilizing a pod structure. The high school will have eight pods consisting of four classrooms and additional small group spaces for project based learning. A lecture hall will also be a strategic part of the design.

Focus groups with students revealed concern with the lecture hall format used in colleges and universities. With the new space the high school will now be able to combine three classes into a single lecture and better prepare learners for college. The lecture hall can also convert to space for virtual high school and drama.

The current high school was built in 1950 with renovation and addition projects in 1954, 1958, 1986, 1990, and 2002. The high school has deficiencies in the exterior envelope, the roofing, HVAC systems, plumbing, electrical, and accessibility.

In its six-year history, the MSBA has made more than $7.9 billion in reimbursements to cities, towns, and regional school districts for school construction projects. These timely payments have saved municipalities over $2.9 billion in avoided local interest costs and have provided much needed cash flow to communities in these difficult economic times.

Massachusetts Bay was replaced in July 1774 by Gen. Thomas Gage. Hutchinson had tried to make the Colonials understand the viewpoint of Parliament. One thing led another, and on December 13, 1773 occurred the famous Boston Tea Party. It was after that event that the Crown had closed the port of Boston and Gen. Gage took over command.

It is believed that many people in the Colonial towns knew of the Boston Tea Party that same night, thanks to the participants and to the Committees of Correspondence.

The next morning, Adams dispatched a rider to tell Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York of the event. His name was Paul Revere.

In subsequent months, Revere would carry messages to other places. He was a dispatch rider, similar to a post rider. He rode alone and unarmed. But he was not the only dispatch rider. It was a secretive business. Only Revere's name is known, but others did ride.

Paul Revere's horse, on the night of April 18, 1775, was supplied by Richard Devens. Devens was the Charlestown chairman of the Committee on Safety, the overriding military command for the patriots. He owned a stable of horses, and it is believed that he supplied horses for other riders on demand.

And it is recorded that when Revere started his own ride, that a man named Dawes started a ride down Boston Neck, enroute to Concord. The patriots sent at least two men to warn of the British move.

Concord had been the recent site of a meeting of the Massachusetts Congress, the Colonials' answer to the closing of the state legislature. It was also a place where military stores were kept. The Committee on Safety and the captains of militia were almost certain Concord that would be the target of the next march by the British. The only question in their minds was when.

The Colonials had their military plans prepared for such an event. The orders had been given orally.

Billerica, Wilmington, Reading and probably Tewksbury men were to march to Bedford Center to get further orders. And that is exactly what they did on Concord Day.

Capt. John Brooks of the Reading Minutemen, a physician, had been in Boston that day. He probably learned that the British were preparing to move. Returning home, he probably alerted his friend, Capt. Cadwallader Ford of Wilmington of the activity.

Ford, in turn, could have sent a message to Capt. John Trull of Tewksbury.

The actions of Capt. Brooks that day were researched by Bruce Morang, the late editor of the Reading Chronicle. His research brought out an interesting fact, that a Reading man also rode that night to give the alarm.

Dr. Martin Herrick, a 28-year-old physician, was reported to have been given the word by none other than Paul Revere that the British were marching, and that Concord was the target. He lived in what was known as the Second Parish, now North Reading.

Dr. Herrick's route has been traced by Morang through Woburn and Stoneham and into what is now Wakefield and Lynnfield. Well before dawn, Dr. Herrick galloped into the courtyard of Gowing's Tavern to sound the alarm.

Incredibly, he then turned his horse to home and arrived there in time to march with the militia of that parish to Bedford and Merriam's Corner, where the fighting took place between the Colonials and the British Regulars.

Somebody, not Dr. Herrick, carried the alarm to Wilmington and Tewksbury.

His name is not known. From when he came is a secret. Where he went after warning Capt. Trull is also unknown.

That rider was probably a person designated by the Committee on Safety. He probably knew in advance what he was to do. He could have started in Woburn or in Reading. From Woburn, he could have traveled up what is now Main Street to the Wilmington church. The alarm could have been given there, before he proceeded to the home of Cadwallader Ford, on Salem Street.

Or from Reading, he may have traveled up the Andover Road past the home of Lt. John Harnden of the Wilmington Minutemen, before arriving at the Ford place. Once alerted, Ford or Harnden could have fired a shot, alerting the town.

From Ford's house, the rider would have gone northwest to Tewksbury via Salem Street. Then, two miles northwest of the Shawsheen River was the Tewksbury church and a sturdy oak known as the "Meeting Tree."

It was at the Meeting Tree that the Tewksbury militia met, according to tradition. That well could have happened that night. The Tewksbury militia was commanded by Capt. Jonathan Brown.

He lived on a farm at the end of what is now Brown Street, by the Shawsheen River.

Later he became Colonel Brown, and his home in Tewksbury Center became well known.

But the unknown rider did not stop at the Meeting Tree.

He would have continued on to the farmhouse of Capt. Trull. That farmhouse is now gone. The Trull Brook Golf Course is on what was the farm, close to the Merrimack River.

Capt. Trull, upon receiving the alarm, fired three shots to notify people across the river in Dracut. Capt. (later General) Varnum got the message and the men of Dracut marched.

The dispatch rider disappears at this point. He may have turned downstream to go to Andover, or upstream to Chelmsford. Or he may have returned to his home town and marched with his local militia.

Rev. Mr. Price of the North Tewksbury Baptist Church in 1880 wrote of this man, he who carried the alarm to Tewksbury.

Later, the town adopted a seal showing the unknown rider crossing the fields of Tewksbury on his way to the home of Capt. Trull. The old Congregational Church is in the background.

But the rider shown on the seal is armed, carrying a musket. None of the dispatch riders carried muskets.

easy-going and very forgiving of her son's moods." And although they drove each other crazy, they were also fiercely loving. She says the two were "so similar - they drove me nuts." A suggestion from a writing partner made Stratton realize that she "wanted to capture the intensity of their relationship" on paper; that, coupled with the mother developing an illness prompted Stratton to begin writing about them.

The plot twist in this story, however, is that Stratton wrote the book ten years ago, in 2001, but "put it on the shelf" until now. She began the book in January or February of that year, with a decided theme of "your life can turn upside down in a moment." But in the time that she was writing "On Air," four planes were hijacked; three of them were flown into buildings in New York and Washington D.C., and one crashed in a field in Pennsylvania. Since the book was set in the time she was writing, Stratton incorporated

ABOUT PROBATE

Probate is the system through which a court determines if a will is legally valid before the inheritances can be distributed. Many people try to avoid it. One reason: probate does create a public record of things you might rather keep private.

The most common tool for avoiding probate is a living trust - but it only works for assets put into it. For anything else, you need a will and that will must be probated.

Some assets automatically fly past probate, such as retirement assets, life insurance and savings bonds, which carry their own beneficiary designations. Jointly titled bank accounts, brokerage accounts and real estate don't go through probate, either. It's important to coordinate all that paperwork with the will.

Some aging parents may depend on a child to handle their finances, and open a joint bank account to facilitate this. That child then becomes the co-owner. Often a power of attorney is wiser.

Estate planning still has tax issues. Talk them over with us at

Letters to the editor

A grateful family

Dear Wilmington

Community,

The Crosby Family would like to thank the entire Wilmington Community for all of its prayers and support for the recent loss of our son, Specialist Christopher Crosby.

Town Officials, Police and Fire Departments were fantastic in giving our son the recognition he and so many other members deserve in sacrificing their lives for our country.

We would also like to thank Lou Cimiglia from Local Heroes and Sara Keller-Linkins from Military Friends Foundation who were instrumental in providing the many services that aid families of our fallen heroes.

A special thank you to Margaret McKenna from Nichols Funeral Home. Margaret and her staff were a great support to us and handled the many details and coordinated the arrangements with the US Army to provide grace and dignity to honor our son Chris.

We would also like to extend our thanks to Father Earley for giving Chris such a beautiful mass and for his kindness towards our family.

A Big thank you to our friends and neighbors and the entire Wilmington community. Your prays, support and thoughts were overwhelming and will never be forgotten. Chris will always be in our hearts and of those he called his friends and family. We will never forget him.

Rest in Peace Chris. God Bless the Town of Wilmington and God Bless America.

Sincerely,
The Crosby Family
Wilmington

Firefighters say thanks

To the residents and businesses of Wilmington,

I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank each and every one of you who donated to our annual fundraiser. As most of you know, we are using a telemarketing approach this year in lieu of the traditional letter that we send out. The main reason for this is that we were approached by many of the residents in the town about a comedy show that was held in the past. We decided this year to bring back that show as a thank you to everyone who has been supporting us over the years. The money that is raised goes to scholarships to both the High School and Shawsheen Tech, MDA, Shriners Burn

Hospital, Kiwanis Club, Wilmington Youth Sports, American Cancer Society, Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, Relay for Life, Moral and Welfare of the Wilmington Firefighters and their families, and any other organization seeking our assistance. Anyone wishing to donate can still do so by stopping by the Public Safety Building and asking to speak with a Firefighter. The comedy show will be held October 14, 2011 at the Hilton Hotel, 2 Forbes Rd. Woburn, MA. Thank you again for your support!

Sincerely,
Bill Cavanaugh
President
Wilmington Firefighters
Union Local 1370

Lions Club comes through

Dear Editor,

The Tewksbury Public Library would like to publicly thank the Tewksbury Lions Club for co-sponsoring our Movie Public Performance Site License. This annual license allows the library to show movies to the public without violating copyright laws. More than 1,200 residents - children, teens, and adults - have taken in a movie at the library since July 2010. From critically acclaimed films (e.g., The Fighter, The King's Speech, The Social Network) to new family favorites (e.g., Toy Story 3, Tangled, Shrek Forever After), the library has provided a comfortable, safe place for the community to watch Hollywood's latest DVD releases at no charge.

The Tewksbury Public Library is extremely fortunate to be supported by such generous local businesses and organizations, like the Lions Club. If your company or non-profit would like to make a financial contribution to help the library improve its programs and services, please contact Library Director Diane Giarrusso at 978-640-4490 or dggiarrusso@tewksbury-ma.gov.

Sincerely,

Molly, Connor and Colleen Cremin with Officer Kevin Reese at the 28th annual National Night Out held at the Tewksbury Senior Center on Tuesday night. National Night Out, which is sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch, involved over 15,000 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities and military bases around the world. One of the goals of National Night Out is to strengthen neighborhood spirit and police-community partnerships. This year, the Tewksbury Police Department, in partnership with the Tewksbury Senior Center and the Tewksbury Public Library, hosted a free Family Movie Night.

Letter to the editor

iPods for Wounded Veterans

Dear Editor,

Once again I must commend WCTV, Wilmington "Premier" Community Television Station, and Sandra Curtin, General Manager for supporting the veterans in the Town of Wilmington. On Tuesday evening, July 26, the Officers of "iPods for Wounded Veterans" got to sit down with Colonel David W Sutherland, U.S. Army, and Special Assistant to the Chairman of the Chief of Staff for Warrior and Family Projects.

Colonel Sutherland and his Aides Major, Ann M. Curtis, USAF and Captain Chris B. Manglicmot, U.S. Army, were in Boston to review what different organizations were doing for the veterans. The Officers of "iPods for Wounded Veterans" had met Colonel Sutherland while they were in Chicago in June. One of Colonel Sutherland's responsibilities is being the point man for the Chief of Staff in coordinating an initiative throughout communities to align the myriad of support organizations and agencies like iPods for Wounded Veterans, Local Heroes, and many others across the country. These organizations include governmental, non-governmental, faith-based, community, business, and higher education groups that provide support for our men and women and families that are in the service. He is currently on a "Fifty States in 50 weeks" engagement schedule traveling to communities all over the country finding those resources and donor programs supporting the returning Warriors still serving, the veterans, the Families, and the Families of the Fallen. We were notified by his Aide Major Curtis that he specifically wanted to meet with us to discuss the project iPods for Wounded Veterans, which he heard about from Walter Reed and Bethesda Naval Hospital personnel.

The Colonel was asked if would appear on our local TV Station to explain his mission, he agreed to take time out of his busy schedule to come to Wilmington and be interviewed by Paul Cardello, Chairman, and the other officers for "iPods for Wounded Veterans."

The committee would also like to thank Bill Robert; Director, Ron Buccieri;

Sound Director, Cameramen Don Leard, Paul Hippel, and Tom Pazyra for giving of their time to make this a special program. The Colonel was quite impressed with the Project "iPods for Wounded Veterans" and the work they had accomplished in less than a year of existence. He stated that upon returning to Washington he would make sure he mentioned their work to the Chief of Staff.

Thanks to all, especially the residents of Wilmington for their continued support of our veterans.

Recycling Committee's Information Center

Dear Editor,

Please don't take this letter as criticism.

Seeing my picture in the paper was fine for my ego. However, my reason for being at the library that day was to publicize the Tewksbury Recycling Committee's information station.

Since I don't use a computer, I may not have the right words relative to electronic gizmos.

The thing hidden by my head in the picture is what I call an "electronic slide show." It contains information about recycling preparation and collection, as well as some of the activities of TRC members. Additionally, we have a webpage and can also be found on Facebook.

Hidden behind Rachel are two plastic drawers and a cardboard box. These are for batteries and pull tabs from aluminum cans. The containers are marked so people will know what goes where. The pull tabs can be from beer, soda, fruit juice, vegetable juice, pet food, or anything else that has a pull tab. Eventually, they get to the Shriners, who use them to help pay for equipment to treat patients for free. I'm still amazed that such a little piece of metal can do so much good.

As for the batteries: I started collecting button-cell batteries in March 1993. Learning about button-cell batteries inspired me to read the labels on all batteries, which I had never done before. Most of the batteries I looked at cautioned against exposing them to fire or high temperatures. All of our trash was going to the incinerator, so I decided to expand my collection to include all household batteries.

By the way, the TRC is looking into a program that recycles alkaline batteries. More on that in the future.

For us 'low-tech' people, there is some helpful literature and, of course, there is always the backside of your recycling calendar.

How do you find the information station? Go through the main entrance of the library, then turn right, and you'll see an alcove to your right. We're in there.

We are always looking for new members and new ideas, so track us down, join us and/or see what we're up to.

Yours truly,
Jae Gray
Tewksbury

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Diane Giarrusso

Explore Boston Harbor

Upcoming events at Tewksbury Public Library include the following:

Exploring Boston Harbor: On Wednesday, August 10 at 6:30pm, join John Galluzzo - public program coordinator for the Massachusetts Audubon Society and co-author of "Boston Harbor: Postcard History Series" - to learn about the Boston Harbor. Take a trip with John around the harbor to survey postcards of its yacht clubs, islands, forts, steamboats, beaches and much more in this presentation based on the book of the same name.

Exploring Salem: On Wednesday, August 17 at 6:30pm, join Jim McAllister - Salem historian, author and founder of Derby Square Tours - for an armchair tour of Salem, Massachusetts, one of America's most fascinating and historic cities. The audience will be treated to an audiovisual presentation that features nearly 250 slides, many of which have appeared in the New York Times, and other national publications including Money, Tour and Resorts, and Americana magazines.

Harry Potter Party For Teens & Tweens: On Friday, August 19 at 2:00pm, teens and tweens are invited to the library's Harry Potter Party, full of Harry Potter trivia; games; crafts; prizes; and snacks! Bonus points for anyone who comes dressed up as their favorite Harry Potter character! Connect with fellow Harry Potter fanatics and discuss all-things Harry Potter.

Exploring Massachusetts: On Wednesday, August 31 at 6:00pm, join Peter and Debbie Lincoln - retired educators - to learn about their fascinating journey to each of the 351 cities and towns in Massachusetts. Entitled "From Purgatory to Podunk," their lively, interactive presentation is a historical, geographical tour, filled with trivia and fun facts. The audience is in store for a lively evening featuring the variety, richness, and beauty of Massachusetts.

Must-See Movie Night: On Tuesday, August 30 at 5:45pm, attend a screening of one of Hollywood's latest DVD releases - "The Conspirator" (PG-13, 123 minutes). Starring James McAvoy, Robin Wright, Justin Long, Evan Rachel Wood, and Tom Wilkinson, this historical drama is based on Kate Clifford Larson's book "The Assassin's Accomplice: Mary Surratt and the Plot to Kill Abraham Lincoln." In the wake of Abraham Lincoln's assassination, seven men and one woman are arrested and charged with conspiring to kill the President, Vice President, and Secretary of State. The lone woman charged, Mary Surratt, owns a boarding house where John Wilkes Booth and others met and planned the simultaneous attacks. Against the ominous backdrop of post-Civil War Washington, newly-minted lawyer Frederick Aiken, a 28-year-old Union war hero, reluctantly agrees to defend Surratt before a military tribunal. Free popcorn and lemonade will be served. Co-sponsored by the Tewksbury Lions Club.

Registration is strongly recommended for library events as it aids presenters and staff with planning. (No registration needed for Movie Nights.) Register by stopping by the Reference Desk, calling 978-640-4490 ext. 207, or by visiting the library's online calendar of events (<http://www.tewksburypl.org>). Refreshments will be provided. Door prizes will be awarded. Events are FREE thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library. The Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library's Friendly Little Bookshop will be open prior to all Wednesday night events.

Teens & Tweens: On Friday,

Paving notice -

Shawsheen Avenue to be resurfaced

WILMINGTON - Please be advised that the Wilmington Department of Public Works will be grinding and resurfacing Shawsheen Avenue (Route 129) between Nichols Street and the Billerica Town Line starting Monday, August 8, 2011. This date may be postponed due to inclement weather or scheduling delays with the Town's roadway contractor.

During grinding and paving operations, Shawsheen Avenue (Route 129) westbound will be closed at Hopkins Street and detoured down Hopkins Street toward Route 3A in Billerica. Traffic coming from Billerica will be allowed to travel normally in the eastbound direction on Shawsheen Avenue.

Please be aware that this restriction may be altered during construction for concerns due to safety or traffic volume. Area residents, including neighborhoods off of Shawsheen Avenue, will have access to and from their properties at all times.

Please obey the directives of police details, detour signs, and warning signs during all construction operations.

If you have any questions, or require additional information, please contact the Department of Public Works at 978-658-4481.

Final call for Mass Audubon photo contest

LINCOLN — Calling all shutterbugs! The deadline to submit photographs to Mass Audubon's second statewide photo contest, Picture This: Your Great Outdoors, is right around the corner: Monday, September 5. Hurry and send in your digital images that highlight the beauty and diversity of Massachusetts wildlife, habitats, and people in nature.

"We had such an amazing response to last year's contest," says Mass Audubon President Laura Johnson. "We received more than a thousand stunning images, and we hope that this year even more people will show us what inspires them to connect with the natural world."

Entrants of all ages and abilities are invited to submit their photos. Two Grand Prize Winners' photos (one student, one adult) will be featured on the cover of a Mass Audubon publication. Two winning entries for Best Mass Audubon Wildlife Sanctuary Photo will be featured inside a Mass Audubon publication. All winning entries, including Honorable Mentions, will be featured on Mass Audubon's website (www.massaudubon.org), which receives more than a million visits per year.

Participants may submit up to five digital images taken in Massachusetts or at Mass Audubon's Wildwood Camp in Rindge, New Hampshire. The contest is open to amateur and professional photographers in one of two categories: adults (age 18 and older) and students (under 18). Black-and-white and color photos taken at any time prior to or during the photo contest are eligible, providing contest rules are met. Contest ends September 5, 2011. To submit photos and view the complete rules, visit: www.massaudubon.org/picturethis.

Mass Audubon works to protect the nature of Massachusetts for people and wildlife. Together with more than 100,000 members, we care for 34,000 acres of conservation land, provide educational programs for 225,000 children and adults annually, and advocate for sound environmental policies at local, state, and federal levels. Mass Audubon's mission and actions have expanded since our beginning in 1896 when our founders set out to stop the slaughter of birds for use on women's fashions. Today we are the largest conservation organization in New England. Our statewide network of wildlife sanctuaries, in 90 Massachusetts communities, welcomes visitors of all ages and serves as the base for our work. To support these important efforts, call 800-AUDUBON (238-8266) or visit www.massaudubon.org.

The Glen Road resurfacing project was originally advertised as a one week project. It's now about three weeks, still not finished and creates constant disruptions for everyone in the area. I'm sure it will be nice when finished, but, I wish someone had contacted the MBTA to repair the railroad tracks, that have been a disaster for years, while the road was being repaired. I guess that planning ahead is not an attribute at the DPW.

National Grid reminds customers of service call safety precautions

WALTHAM - National Grid is reminding customers that to ensure confidence and security during service calls, all National Grid employees are required to carry company photo identification. Most, but not all, National Grid employees also travel in clearly marked National Grid vehicles when providing service to residences and businesses.

Yesterday, the company received reports that individuals posing as National Grid employees were able to gain entry to and rob a Cumberland, RI customer's home by diverting the customer's attention. National Grid is working closely with the Cumberland police to investigate the incident and has alerted all area police departments about the incident. Similar incidents were reported earlier this month in several Massachusetts communities. Those investigations are continuing.

Customers should always ask to see the National Grid company ID badge of anyone who says they are from National Grid - especially if the customer did not initiate a service call.

If you are in any doubt as to whether an individual is a National Grid employee, tell the person to wait outside and then call National Grid to confirm identification. National Grid electric customers throughout New England should call 1-800-322-3223. National Grid gas customers should call according to geographic area.

In Rhode Island, gas customers should call 800-870-1664 to confirm identification.

In the Greater Boston Area, gas customers should call 1-800-233-5325.

For all other areas of Massachusetts, gas customers should call 1-800-548-8000.

It's important to note that in Massachusetts electricity customers can choose to purchase their energy supply at competitive prices from a variety of suppliers known as Competitive Suppliers or Energy Suppliers. Some suppliers may contact customers through door-to-door marketing. Supplier representatives participating in door-to-door sales activities must not claim to represent National Grid or any other utility.

National Grid does not conduct sales door-to-door, and will never ask for customer account numbers at the home. In addition, third-party supplier representatives must display proper photo ID with their own company logo visi-

Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Events for All Ages at the Library

The library offers lots to do at no cost throughout the summer including a cool place to read a newspaper or magazine, use your laptop, or attend one of the events listed below. As one library patron remarked, it is the best summer camp in town!

Event Registration

Register for programs online using our Calendar of Events at www.wilmlibrary.org or by calling (978) 958-2967 (for Adult) or (978) 694-2098 (for Children/Teen).

Draw a Puzzle

Drop-in Craft

Monday, August 8 -

Friday, August 12

Draw a puzzle with your own unique design. You may want to draw a picture of a fun summer experience. All ages.

Creature Teachers: Australian Animals

Tuesday, August 9, 10 am

Registration Required

Live animals of Australian origin, including a cockatoo, kookaburra, wallaby, cuscus, woma python, blue-tongue skink, bearded dragon and a pair of White's tree frogs, will be presented for up-close and personal visits with the audience by this family owned business specializing in environmental and animal education. Because they are so unique and good natured, many of The Creature Teachers' animals have been on national television shows. All ages.

Play Chess

Wednesday,

August 10, 3:30 pm

Calling all chess fans—all ages and skill levels. Come alone, or bring a friend, for an hour of fun playing chess. We'll have tables set up for players and a limited number of chess sets will be provided. Please bring chess sets, if convenient. Children under age 10 need to be accompanied by an adult. Drop-in.

Children's Tie-Dye Workshop

Friday, August 12, 10:30 am

Registration begins

Thursday, August 4

Kids aged 9 & older are invited to register for this hands-on tie-dye workshop. Bring your own washed white 100%-cotton t-shirt and we will provide the rest. Space is limited.

International Paper Doll Chains Drop-in Craft

Monday, August 15 -

Friday, August 19

We have travelled all over the world this summer. Create a chain of paper dolls representing different countries of the world. All ages.

Sparky's Puppets Presents "Travel the Reading Road"

Wednesday, August 17, 7 pm

Registration begins

Thursday, August 4

Travel the reading road with Sparky's Puppets. A library card is the ticket to this trip around the world in funny folktales about clever animals and magical happenings. Laugh at the antics of Anansi the Spider, a trickster from West Africa. Meet a family of mice in Japan. And watch an exciting race between a tortoise and a hare in a fable from Ancient Greece. Recommended for ages 3 & older.

Teen Zone News

Lucky Teen Reader of the Week

Our Lucky Teen Reader of the Week is Maria Patroni, who "loved how [E. Lockhart's The Boyfriend Book] was about real life in high school." She wins a free book, courtesy of the Friends of the Wilmington Library. Congratulations, Maria!

Copies of Required Summer Reading Books at Library

Required reading lists and books for Wilmington Middle and High Schools are now available in the Teen Zone; the full list is at [http://www.wilmlibrary.org/t eens/read\_schools.html](http://www.wilmlibrary.org/t eens/read_schools.html)

You Are Here: Edible Vehicles

Friday, August 5, 2 pm

Registration required. No need to drive off somewhere: everything you need to build a vehicle is right there in your pantry. Learn how, race other teens' creations, and consume the losers!

Bored? Play Board Games!

Thursday,

August 11, 6:30 pm

School's out, so come play games! Classics like Clue and Monopoly, modern strategy games like Settlers of Catan, offbeat card games like Munchkin or Fluxx. There's something for everyone, so drop in to join us!

Teen Tie-Dye

Friday, August 12, 2 pm

Registration required

Learn how to create spirals, rings, rays, or other designs on T-shirts in our hands-on workshop! We'll provide the dyes and instructions; participants should bring a clean, 100%-cotton T-shirt to dye.

All-You-Can-Read

Teen Buffet

Tuesday, August 16, 12 Noon

Registration required

Join us for a marathon read-in while we provide the snacks to keep you going and a pizza party when you finish. Great time to finish your summer reading requirement in cool comfort!

Adult Programs

Computer Security

Monday, August 8, 7:00 pm

Registration Required

The library's Technology Librarian, Curtis Wyant, will share information about securing your computer against spyware and viruses as well as tips for safe internet and email use.

Movie Night

Jane Eyre

Tuesday, August 16, 6:45 pm

From book to film, this adaptation of Jane Eyre is sure to please; starring Mia Wasikowska and Michael Fassbender. Enjoy watching on a large screen in the cool of our conference room.

Refreshments provided. (PG13)

PageTurners Book Discussion

Tuesday, August 16, 1:30 pm

at library or

7p at Starbucks

PageTurners will discuss The Creation by E. O. Wilson.

Summer Social featuring the Dave Rasmussen Boiler Room Sextet

Friday, August 19th, 7:00 pm, $10 per person, 21+

Join your friends and neighbors for a Summer Social featuring the Dave Rasmussen Boiler Room Sextet jazz ensemble. The ensemble will entertain guests with an hour long concert followed by a social hour with food and drink. Tickets now on sale at the library's information desk.

Download Music for Free

Wilmington Memorial Library now subscribes to Freegal, an online database that provides access to nearly 500,000 songs from Sony's Music catalog and is continually updated with new material. All you need to access it is your Wilmington library card number and your PIN. You may download three songs per week. Your download counter will reset each Sunday at midnight. You can play the file in a program such as iTunes or Windows Media Player. The files have no expiration date and are DRM-free. They are compatible with PCs, Macs, iPods, iPads, and other MP3-compatible devices.

Reading Raffle Winner

Congratulations to Mary Mahoney who won the reading raffle prize for the week of July 25. She will receive a $10 gift certificate to Starbucks. Earn your chance to win a weekly prize by entering books you read this summer. Just go to the library's web site www.wilmlibrary.org to participate. If you do not have internet access, stop by the information desk and the librarian will enter you into the reading raffle.

Rep. Niki Tsongas co-sponsors "Right to Repair Act"

Massachusetts Reps. Capuano, Frank, McGovern also support HR 1449

BETHESDA, MD - Rep. Niki Tsongas (D-MA-5) has declared her support of the Motor Vehicle Owners' Right to Repair Act (HR 1449), it was announced on Thursday, July 28, 2011, by Kathleen Schmatz, president and CEO of the Automotive Aftermarket Industry Association (AAIA).

"We want to thank Rep. Tsongas for supporting this very important piece of pro-consumer and pro-small business legislation that ensures that American car owners will continue to have access to quality, affordable auto repair," said Schmatz. "The Right to Repair Act does not cost tax payers money, but instead keeps motorists in the driver's seat by making sure that they, and not the vehicle manufacturers, have the final say on where their car is taken for service, whether to a dealership or a trusted neighborhood repair shop."

The Right to Repair Act levels the competitive playing field for motoring consumers and between new car dealerships and independent repair shops by requiring that car companies provide full access at a reasonable cost to all service information, tools, computer codes and safety-related bulletins needed to repair motor vehicles. The legislation provides car companies with strong protections for their trade secrets, only requiring them to make available the same non-proprietary diagnostic and repair information they provide their franchised dealers.

The need for the Right to Repair Act has become apparent due to the growing use of computers and electronics which control nearly every function of a vehicle from air bags and brakes to ignition, fuel injection and tire pressure monitoring systems. Although these computer systems provide benefits to consumers through improved fuel efficiency, comfort and safety, they also provide increasing opportunities for car companies to deny access to car owners and the repair shops where they normally obtain service for their vehicle.

The Motor Vehicle Owners' Right to Repair Act (HR 1449) would require car companies to make the same service information and tools capabilities available to independent repair shops that they provide to their franchised dealer networks. The legislation further provides car companies with strong protections for their trade secrets unless that information is provided to the franchised new car dealers. The bill clarifies the responsibilities of the Federal Trade Commission in enforcing the bill's requirements. For more information about the Right to Repair Act, visit www.righttorepair.org.

A blood drive to benefit Children's Hospital was held last Wednesday night at the Wilmington Masonic Hall. Lydia Martin took blood from Dan Tammik, who was donating in memory of George Pratt III who passed away in February. Mr. Pratt had donated more than 18 gallons of blood to Children's Hospital over the past 30 years.

Police Beach Day at Silver Lake

WILMINGTON - Join us on Thursday, August 4 at the Wilmington Town Beach at Silver Lake for Police Beach Day. This annual event for Wilmington residents is sponsored by the Wilmington Police Department with the support of the Wilmington Recreation Department.

Take part in activities including beach volleyball, sand castle contests and dance competitions followed by a barbecue lunch served by your own Wilmington Police Department men/women in blue!

From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. sit back and enjoy the sounds of old time rock and roll played by a local DJ! You won't want to miss this fun event.

READING - The cost of streetlighting in the Town of Wilmington is on its way down as a result of Reading Municipal Light Department's (RMLD) recently completed cost of service study that warranted a decrease in its streetlight rate.

RMLD filed its revised streetlight rate with the Department of Public Utilities and the new rate takes effect August 1.

"We estimate that the Town of Wilmington will save approximately $60,000 on its streetlight bill for the 2012 fiscal year," said RMLD General Manager Vinnie Cameron.

The estimate is based on Wilmington's current inventory of streetlights and the fuel charge billed in the 2011 fiscal year. If either one of these variables change, the savings will adjust.

two years. House Democrats voted to uphold Speaker DeLeo's ruling that such permanent changes to the tax code should not be considered during a debate over the weekend exemption. Rep. Miceli and two other House Democrats joined with the Republicans in voting to reduce the sales tax.

"The sales tax holiday legislation will definitely provide relief for taxpayers once again this year," said Rep. Miceli.

The sales tax holiday applies to retail sales excluing any single item priced higher than $250. The sales tax holiday does not apply to telecommunications or tobacco products as well as gas, steam, electricity, motor vehicles, motorboats or meals.

Last year's two-day August sales tax holiday saved taxpayers an estimated $19.9 million. A tax holiday weekend would likely give up $20 million in sales taxes this year, according to the Department of Revenue estimates.

Scot's Heather Follies of 1861 - 8/26 & 27; MAW Golf Tournament 9/12 Sign up NOW!

A note of thanks is extended to Steve Bjork and his crew of Comedians, Jimmy Dunn, Mike Prior, Steve Macone and the infamous Steve Bjork himself... for their Comedy Night appearance at the Senior Center this past Saturday evening. The show was wonderful and the audience roared with laughter. What a great way to spend a Saturday evening with friends and at the same time practice the old proverb that "laughter is the best medicine".

Dr. Smith will conduct a Podiatry Clinic at the Senior Center on Thursday, August 25th. This clinic will be limited to 30 Tewksbury Senior Citizens and is partially funded by the Council on Aging. A co-payment of $15 is due upon registration. Registrations are now being accepted and are on a first come basis.

Then on Friday, August 26 and Saturday, August 27 the Historical Society will present the play "Scot's Heather Follies of 1861". The performances will be held at 7:30 PM; and, the actors are our very own Tewksbury residents. Tickets are available from Society members and at the Senior Center.

Upscale consignors should note that due to the Labor Day holiday, the next "Intake of Items" day will be held on the last Monday of this month, August 29th; and, that the Upscale will begin to accept Fall clothing.

The following trips are scheduled for August; and, tickets are now available:

August 17th (Weds.) - A trip to Ipswich and the famous "Clam Box of Ipswich" Restaurant. The trip cost is $25 plus lunch on one's own. A guided bus tour of historic Ipswich is included.

August 24th (Weds.) - A trip to Provincetown via the new fast ferry which will get everyone to P-Town in 90 minutes. The trip cost is $85 and includes bus transportation to and from Boston, the fast ferry fee and a 5 hour stay at P-Town. Lunch will be on one's own.

Registrations are now being accepted for the Friends 14th Annual MAW Golf Tournament being held at the Indian Ridge Country Club on Monday, September 12th. Tournament fees are $130 per person or $500 per foursome and include: a day of golf at a private course, continental breakfast, a plated luncheon and prizes as well as an enjoyable day connecting generations. The public is welcome. For more information one may call Linda Brabant at 978-640-4480 or 978-851-4243.

Watch for information on Senior Center fall classes in next week's column.

Have a great week. God Bless America.

Wilmington-Tewksbury PMC connection

Longtime pals going the distance

By: LAUREN SPENCER
Sports Correspondent

A summer weekend with a high school friend isn't usually spent navigating the streets of Massachusetts on a bicycle. But this Saturday, old friends Kevin Barile and Dave Laing will be "hanging out" in a most unselfish fashion.

The pair will ride 84 miles, from Wellesley to Bourne, towards a cure for cancer in the 32nd annual Pan-Massachusetts Challenge, a bike-a-thon that raises money for cancer research and treatment at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its charity, the Jimmy Fund.

Barile and Laing began participating in the annual ride back in 2008, but that's not where their friendship had its start.

"[Dave and I have] known each other as kids, we went to [Woburn] high school together. His wife and my wife are best friends, I was in his wedding, he was in my wedding, and he's involved in my children's lives all the time. Doing [the PMC] with him is awesome. It makes it so much better," said Barile, now of Tewksbury, while Laing currently resides in Wilmington. But that's not all they share. While Barile celebrated his 32nd birthday this past Tuesday, Laing will do the same on Saturday, all while making the 84-mile journey in support of cancer research. Giving back to thousands of people in need sounded like a pretty rewarding birthday gift to this duo.

Now about to tally their third year of participation in the cycling quest, the friends admit the event has always been enjoyable and inspirational, but it has been their personal connections and the charity itself that's kept them coming back.

"My mom is a 37-year cancer survivor," said Barile. "She is still alive and she's healthy as can be. But also, [I do it] for all the other people that have cancer. In my line of work, we come across a lot of cancer patients and people that passed away from cancer, so that certainly [motivates] me as well."

Barile and his family operate two family-owned funeral homes, located in Reading and Stoneham. He said that a lot of the families he serves have had loved ones pass away from various types of cancer, so with inspiration from those people and his mother, he felt the PMC was a perfect way for him to make a difference.

"My grandmother actually passed away from lung cancer, and my grandfather who is still alive is battling skin cancer," said Laing. "Cancer kind of runs in my family, so I thought [the PMC] was a good idea. And, just the fact that the money [we raise] is going to a good cause to help people in need. We have immediate family members who have suffered through cancer and we saw what they go through and realized that this can help a lot of people, not just our own families."

The PMC offers 11 different routes of various distances so that each rider can strive to conquer the one that is best fit for them. Each rider is asked to raise a certain amount of money; dependent on the distance they ride. Barile and Laing will be cycling the one-day, 84-mile route, and therefore had to raise $3,000 each.

While it seems like an incredibly large sum of money for just one person to raise, family, friends, small businesses, and other personal connections came through with great support for the pair of cyclists.

"They all seem to like the idea that we're trying to help raise money for cancer awareness and help others, so we usually do pretty well," said Laing.

Laing has always received a good response in donations from friends and family members, but Barile found an alternative source of fundraising that has proven to be a tremendous success.

"The vast majority of my fundraising comes from all of the families we serve throughout the funeral homes," Barile said. "I send them all letters explaining to them what I am doing, and that has been my biggest avenue of support. A lot of these people [had loved ones] pass away from cancer, so I thought they would want to donate. I fundraise every year between six and seven thousand dollars myself. It's amazing. It's absolutely amazing."

In addition to the incredible support they receive fundraising, Barile and Laing said the support they get from spectators along the route is what makes it such a rewarding experience.

"It's fantastic, there are people out at seven o'clock in the morning at the end of their driveways cheering you on, saying 'We're cancer survivors' and 'Thank you,'" said Laing.

"We don't train much up to the ride itself, which doesn't really work in our favor, but that's okay," said Barile laughing. "We'll go for about three rides [during the] three weeks before the ride. We do 20 miles one week, then 40 the next, then 50, and then that's it. Then we do the ride. We don't bike ever throughout the year, [either]. Biking isn't a sport of ours, but we just do [the PMC] because of the cancer ride."

But ready or not, they are both excited to finally set off for this year's ride on Saturday morning at seven a.m. in Wellesley.

"I'm excited this year," Barile said. "Last year, I was a little nervous, but having done the course twice already, we kind of know what the course is like and we're looking forward to it. Once you get there and you start riding, it's easy."

"I can't wait. I'm actually very excited," said Laing.

Added Barile, "The anticipation is there, but once you start Saturday morning, you just fly with everybody else and we're looking forward to it."

Lucky number 13 for White and his family

By: LAUREN SPENCER
Sports Correspondent

It's often been said that there is strength in numbers, but add in a family and those numbers get even stronger. That's what the White family of Wilmington is going for this weekend.

They have over a half dozen family members combining their efforts to make an even bigger difference in the lives of those in need as they participate in the 32nd Annual Pan-Massachusetts Challenge to raise money for cancer research through the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund.

Jim White is no rookie to the annual bike-a-thon, coming up on ride number 13 this weekend. But his family doesn't lack much experience either.

In 1998, White decided to conquer the PMC for the first time. His mother, Peggy White, also a Wilmington resident, had cancer about seven years prior to that, and was treated at Dana Farber.

"She was pretty sick, it got pretty bad, but she ended up coming back from it and doing really well. She was treated [at Dana Farber] and they did a really good job. Then somebody I work with was doing a ride so I thought it was a good way to give back for the care she had," White said. "I did it kind of on a limb that year and it was a struggle because I didn't train that well but I made it and then it was a lot of fun so I decided to do it again and then 13 years later, I'm still doing it."

That first year, White's girlfriend at the time, Hyla, who is now his wife, along with his sister, Karen Breton, volunteered at a water stop. The next year, his mother got involved, and later his niece, Ericka Beraldi, and nephew, Anthony Beraldi, began volunteering as well.

"It's actually like three generations of family," White said. "My mother is in her early 80's and it's not easy. They're down in Bourne working a salad tent, which is probably the most popular food stop because it's healthy, but she got help from Dana Farber so she enjoys giving back. I think she enjoys meeting other survivors as well and she just appreciates the fact that all those people are out there."

And recently, the White family added another generation of efforts to bring to their fight against cancer. White's five-year old son, Braeden, began participating in the local PMC Kid's Ride last year when he was four-years old, and he rode again this past spring as a five-year old. Last year he raised $400, and this year he raised about $700.

"I thought it was a good way for him to understand what I'm doing, and then for him to get involved too in some way because my whole family is kind of involved," said White. "He really enjoys it. He has fun and I'm sure he'll keep going. For me it's fun to see them involved too. It's really exciting to see my son do it and understand at that age what's going on so it makes it that much more special."

Aside from sharing the remarkable feeling of giving back with his family members, White said he especially enjoys knowing he is making a difference in the lives of others.

"You feel like you're getting a lot out of it," he said. "I've met a lot of people who have had cancer and are actually riding so it's awesome to see that the money you raise really makes a difference. You meet so many people along the way that are cheering you on. It's just a fun weekend. I've met people 13 years ago that I still ride with now."

For the first few years White rode, he just with the people I met he met along the way for the majority of the ride. For a couple years after that, he rode with a team from Fidelity Investments, the company he works for, and then a few years ago, he got involved with riding for the Patriots' team.

Many of the larger teams in the PMC, like the Patriots' team, are paired with a pedal partner. The team will be matched with a pediatric oncology patient of the Jimmy Fund Clinic, and then ride in his or her honor. The Patriots' team has a pedal partner this year who is a five-year old girl named Charlotte.

"She's pretty much the same age as my son," said White. "So when we went to meet her he came with me. She's taking a turn for the worst [right now], so I think it brings you back to reality to be happy for what you have. I have healthy kids so I should be happy to be able to help other people."

White's mother was the original reason he got involved, but now as he meets more patients like Charlotte, it gives him an even greater reason to ride year after year.

"I think originally [I got involved] because my mother had cancer," he said. "She was pretty bad but the care she [received] got her through it. She's been cancer free now for about 15 plus years. There's so many people affected by it and I think what really hit me is as I got more involved you think a lot of people have cancer, but you get exposed to kids, like a child who is 5 years old and for them to get that sick [is hard to think about]."

This weekend, White will ride 163 miles over the course of two days, from Wellesley to Provincetown while his family members volunteer along the route. In preparation, White trained as much as possible, despite a busy schedule along with raising his children.

"It's getting tougher actually because I have kids," he said. "In the past I'd probably ride a couple of times during the week at night after work and then on the weekends I'd try to do a couple long rides. Now that I have kids, I still try to ride a couple times a week and on a Saturday or Sunday I'll try to do anywhere from 30-50 miles."

The PMC offers various route options of different mileage and lengths. All participants are asked to raise a certain amount of money for the charity, depending on which route they are riding. White's route is one of the longer options, and he was therefore asked to raise $4,200. He has become a fundraising expert over the past 13 years, though. He raised over $112,000 since he began riding in the PMCs, and all of the money he brings in goes directly to helping patients who need it.

"I've got a ton of support from where I work for fundraising," he said. "I work at a pretty good sized company so people at work have been pretty good about it. The last couple years I've tried to hit up some local businesses, so Rocco's has supported me the last couple of years, things like that. It's not easy to raise $4,000 these days and 100% of that money goes directly to the charity. There are no overhead costs."

But now as the weekend quickly approaches, White and his family just can't wait to get going.

"I'm feeling good," he said. "Earlier in the year when I began my training, I was worried about getting the time in but I've been able to find the time and physically I think I'm in good shape. I'm hoping for some good weather this weekend. We're actually staying on the Cape this time once we get down there which is cool. I'm looking forward to hanging out with my family after. But it's going good, I'm looking forward to it. It's always a good experience. It's my way of giving back and trying to do something for others."

Wilmington Under 18 Softball team compete in Chelmsford tournament

The Wilmington U18 softball team took part in Chelmsford's "Girls of Summer" softball tournament last weekend. On Friday night they opened up against Danvers. Some sloppy play in the field led to nine unearned runs and helped Danvers run away with a 10-1 victory.

Pitcher Megan Howland allowed only four hits but the defense behind her committed several errors and the inattentive play of the Wildcats allowed Danvers to steal multiple bases, including home plate in the fourth inning. Wilmington's only run came in the third inning when Lauren McKenna hit a one-out triple. She then scored on a ground out. The Wildcat's penchant for leaving runners on base continued as they stranded ten, including leaving the bases loaded twice.

Besides McKenna's triple, Wilmington had five other hits. Kennedy Harper doubled in the fourth and ended up being named Wilmington's "Player of the Game".

Katherine McKenna, Kim Woods, Ally Gemellaro and Megan Howland all had singles.

Chelmsford 9, Wilmington 6 On Saturday Wilmington played back-to-back games. In the first game they were pitted against the Chelmsford Blue Crush. Wildcat pitcher Casey MacDonald allowed only two hits but once again, Wilmington's defense failed as they committed four first inning errors leading to three unearned runs.

After settling down and putting down the Crush in order in the second, Wilmington scored two runs in the bottom half of the inning. Katherine McKenna led off with single and she scored on a hit by Jackie Parece. After advancing to third, Parece then crossed the plate on a wild pitch. Wilmington took the lead in the third inning when they scored two more runs. MacDonald led off with a walk. Lauren McKenna doubled to left-center field scoring MacDonald. Katherine McKenna followed with her second hit of the game, moving Lauren to third. A Kim Woods single plated Lauren McKenna for Wilmington's fourth run. Chelmsford would score six more runs, three more unearned, in the fourth and fifth innings on defensive miscues.

Down 9-4, the Wildcats picked up two more runs in the last inning. Katherine McKenna doubled for her third hit and then stole third base. Woods followed with a walk before Parece doubled home McKenna. A single by Ally Gemellaro scored Woods with the final run. With a putout and five assists, shortstop Jackie Kennedy was named Wilmington's "Player of the Game".

Wilmington 11, Tri-Town 2

In the second game of the day, Wilmington met up with the Tri-Town Titans, a team with a 7-2 summer season record and a team who came off a 1-0 loss to Chelmsford earlier in the day. Wilmington finally put a solid full-game effort together and marched off with an 11-2 win. The defense was much improved in this game with solid plays all around. Catcher Kennedy Harper held her ground against a runner trying to steal home in the second inning. Thirdbaseman Ally Gemellaro made several good plays, including making a back-handed stab of a grounder in the third.

Firstbaseman Lauren McKenna hustled after a few short pop ups and was strong on throws coming her way. Megan Howland pitched very well, not allowing a walk and striking out three.

Wilmington scored five runs in each of the first two innings. With one out in the first, Jackie Kennedy singled. Back-to-back doubles by Lauren McKenna and Katherine McKenna scored two runs. Kim Woods reached safely on a bunt. Jackie Parece walked. A ground out scored Katherine McKenna. Woods then stole home for the fourth run. Megan Howland walked and then alertly continued on, keeping herself in a run-down long enough to score Parece. Casey MacDonald led off the second inning with a walk. Harper reached on an error. Kennedy walked to load the bases. Lauren McKenna's deep fly to left was misplayed, allowing McDonald to score. Katherine McKenna's single drove in Harper. Kennedy and Lauren McKenna both scored on a single by Woods. Gemellaro doubled home Woods for a 10-0 Wilmington lead.

The Wildcats added on one more run in the 3rd inning. Kennedy walked and stole second base. Lauren McKenna's second hit moved Kennedy to third. Katherine McKenna then drove in her third run with her third hit of the game and sixth of the day.

Tri-Town got on the board in the fourth with two runs on a lead off triple, followed by a double.

With one out, the Titan batter bunted. The runner on third was safe at the plate but the hitter tried to advance to second. Harper fired to Kennedy covering at second for the out. Howland then struck out the final batter and Wilmington had their first victory of the tournament. For her strong play behind the plate, Harper was named Wilmington's "Player of the Game".

Chelmsford 8, Wilmington 3

On Sunday Wilmington proceeded to the elimination round and found themselves once again facing the Chelmsford Blue Crush. Although Chelmsford would win the game 8-3 and move on to the finals, it was a much more exciting game than in their previous meeting.

The Crush scored one run each of the first and second innings. The Wildcats came back in the top of the third when Kennedy Harper led off with a bunt single. She stole second and then scored on Lauren McKenna's double to left field. With two outs, Jackie Parece doubled home McKenna to tie the game. In Chelmsford's half of the third they scored two more on three Wilmington errors and a sacrifice fly.

Wilmington settled down in the fourth as pitcher Casey MacDonald put down Chelmsford in order.

Harper led off the fifth with a single and stole her second base of the game. With two outs, Katherine McKenna's double plated Harper. Parece got her third hit of the game but the Chelmsford pitcher beared down and struck out the next batter, leaving the two runners stranded.

With Chelmsford now up 4-3 they had one runner on with one out in the fifth inning. A hard line shot was caught by Jackie Kennedy at shortstop and she fired to Megan Howland at firstbase to double off the runner. Wilmington failed to get a baserunner on in the 6th and Chelmsford was able to add four more runs in the bottom half before the tournament time limit ended the game.

Although the Wildcats finished the weekend 1-3, they out hit their opponents in each game. In the final game against Chelmsford Parece led the way with three hits, including two doubles. Harper had two hits. Lauren and Katherine McKenna each had a double and Ally Gemellaro and Rachel Mills chipped in with a hit a piece. For the weekend, Katherine McKenna went eight for eleven with three doubles.

The Wildcats return to league play this weekend with a home contest against Lunenburg and then travel to Tewksbury on Thursday.

Shawsheen School visits the State House.

In a tradition spanning decades, the third grades from the Shawsheen and Woburn Street Elementary Schools visit the State House during the spring semester bringing their youthful enthusiasm while viewing one of the most beautiful buildings in the Commonwealth. The students, teachers and chaperones enjoyed a tour and a question and answer period with Rep. Jim Miceli.

iPods for Wounded Veterans' Summer Events

WILMINGTON - Though the summer is winding down, iPods for Wounded Veterans is ramping up their efforts for their nonprofit, 501 (c) certified organization. On Sunday, August 14, the group is holding a benefit at the Billerica VFW to raise funds for their charitable work. Starting at 1:00 p.m. 12 Phinney Street in North Billerica will host a poker run and concert that promises to be a treat for all ages. Rod Stewart tribute performer Rick Larimore and the hit group Blonds Have More Fun! will be rocking the house in a concert for all to enjoy. Ticketholders can also look forward to a barbecue and 50/50 raffles. Tickets are $20 for adults, free for children under 12. For more information about the event and how to buy tickets call (978) 667-0506 or email michaelparker5@verizon.net. The rain date for this event is Saturday, August 20.

If you want to learn more about the group without leaving home, check out iPods For Wounded Veterans on WCTV. On Thursday, August 4, Lisa Kapala's hit show "Where's Wilmington" will feature members of the local group as guests at 7:00 p.m. Following that at 8:00 p.m., "Sports Forum" host and iPods for Wounded Veterans Chairman Paul Cardello will interview Colonel David Sutherland in a special edition of his program. These shows can be viewed on WCTV-P, Channel 9 Comcast and Channel 37 on Verizon.

You can also support iPods for Wounded Veterans by participating in the group's ongoing Car, Truck, and Heavy Equipment Donation Program. Any working or nonworking vehicle can be donated to the group as a tax-deductible gift, and will be towed away for free. To schedule a pick-up, call 855-IPOD-4-VET (855-476-3483).

iPods for Wounded Veterans would like to thank all of those who have helped the group's efforts. To date, the group has brought more than 185 combined iPods and iPads to the wounded warriors recuperating in America's VA hospitals. Please help iPods for Wounded Veterans continue to support our nation's heroes.

Great Park Pursuit

Family adventure in the Massachusetts State Parks

NORTH OF BOSTON - The Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) is excited to announce opening registration for the fifth annual Great Park Pursuit! The Great Park Pursuit (GPP) is a free family adventure activity that runs from July 1 through September 10, 2011 to connect families with the outdoors and their state park resources.

Teams are comprised of a minimum two-member team (one adult 18 years or older, and one child under 18). Teams are then challenged to create their own "personal" Great Park Pursuit and visit six different GPP programs offered state-wide during the summer season as part of a fun Massachusetts State Parks Family Adventure! Teams may hike to amazing views, step back in time, uncover stories in stone, walk on the wild side, cast away on a lake, explore the night sky and much more. Teams that attend 6 or more programs during the series in at least 6 different categories are invited to the Grand Finale Celebration held on Saturday, September 10. Rain or shine.

The Great Park Pursuit is a FREE family adventure activity; however certain parks charge a daily parking fee (between $2 and $9 dollars). You may also borrow a DCR ParksPass from many libraries or recreation departments in the state through DCR's "Use Nature As Your Library" program. Call your local library or recreation department to find out if it has a lending program - or view 2011 participating partners list online at www.mass.gov/dcr/library-pass.

Teams may plan their personal park pursuit to meet their family schedules and means. Stay local or visit every corner of the state. Play on weekends or weekdays. DCR wants GPP Teams to come out and play in their state parks, have fun and build great family memories. Teams are also encouraged to track their adventures with stories, photos and itineraries on their GPP personal Family homepage. Register your team today. Visit www.mass.gov/dcr/gpp for online registration, game card, program information and interactive features; or contact the DCR Great Park Pursuit Team via email at parks.pursuit@state.ma.us or phone at 617-626-1450.

Public hearings scheduled

Suggested HazMat route would direct trucks along Routes 93 & 95

By PAUL FEELY

The images featured on local newscasts recently of a tanker truck exploding on Route 1 in Saugus, killing the driver and causing evacuations of nearby homes, spurred Boston Mayor Tom Menino to once again stress the need to prohibit such delivery trucks to travel through his city, due to the explosive nature of the cargo they carry.

Some state officials would rather they take a circuitous route, one that could bring them through Middlesex East communities Stoneham, Burlington, Reading and Woburn.

Public Hearings will be held by MassDOT, as the state routing agency, to discuss the "I-93/I-95 Non-Radioactive Hazardous Material through routing designation" proposed by the City of Boston.

The four hearings are scheduled as follows (one will be held locally, next month, in Stoneham):

Boston - Tuesday, August 23, 6:30 pm- 8:30 pm, State Transportation Building, 10 Park Plaza, 2nd Floor, Boston

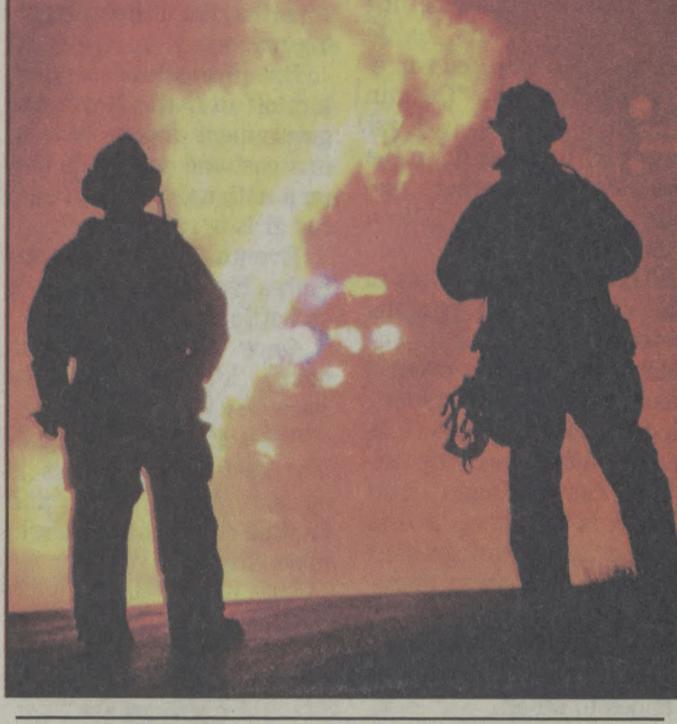

Quincy - Wednesday, August 24, 6:30 pm-8:30 pm, Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington Street, Quincy

Waltham - Tuesday, August 30, 6:30 pm-8:30 pm, Clark Government Center, Main Auditorium, 119 School Street, Waltham

Stoneham - Thursday, September 1, 6:30 pm-8:30 pm, Stoneham Town Hall Auditorium, 35 Central Street, Stoneham.

More information regarding the proposed routes can be found at http://www.massdot.state.ma.us/highway/hazmat\_study.aspx

.aspx

The purpose of these hearings is to provide the public with the opportunity to provide testimony and comments regarding the City of Boston's routing analysis and proposed Non-Radioactive Hazardous Material through routing designation along I-93/I-95. All views and comments made at the hearing will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

MassDOT and City of Boston representatives will be present to discuss the proposed route and answer questions.

HazMat to S-4

A SUGGESTED ROUTE FOR non-radioactive hazardous material along I-93 and I-95 (above) could have a major impact on area highways and communities. The suggested route would force non-radioactive hazardous material tankers and trucks to traverse from Route 93 to Route 95 in the Woburn, Reading and Stoneham area. The tractor trailer fully involved on Route 1 in Saugus (top left), shows a Wakefield fire crew on Route 1 awaiting orders from the Saugus Fire Chief.

9TH ANNUAL WALK FOR THE KIDS

On Saturday, August 6 the Boys and Girls Club of Stoneham is hosting its 9th annual Walk for the Kids. Registration begins at 8 a.m. at Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield. The Walk begins at 8:30 a.m. Walkers can register on line through Firstgiving.com!

The Boys and Girls Club of Stoneham is a private, non-profit organization that has been serving children in the greater Stoneham community for approximately 38 years. In order to continue the quality of its programs year after year it depends on donations from supporters and friends in the community.

The club's membership is an affordable $25/year. However operating costs continue to rise. This year the cost per member is $5000 and the club reaches out to its friends to assist in raising the operating funds necessary to continue to offer the quality programs and snacks it provides.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

COOL HEADS, WOOD WORK, AND MORE LOVE LOST

Please check your local "Daily Times Chronicle" for daily updates.

-Wanted in Tewksbury- "The Tewksbury Police Department is on the look out," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"It is looking to reward with gift certificates young people 'caught' wearing their bike helmets. These certificates can be redeemed at ... the local McDonald's, Burger King, or Friendly's. It's really a good way to hopefully increase helmet use in town," said Officer Jennie Welch.

"It's actually the law that young people 16 and under wear a bike helmet," Officer Welch said. Massachusetts law requires children 16 years of age or younger who operate a bicycle, or who ride as a passenger on a bicycle, on a public way or bike path to wear a properly fitted and fastened helmet.

"A bicycle helmet can reduce risk of serious head and brain injury by as much as 90%. Unfortunately, 89% of people killed in bicycle crashes with motor vehicles were not wearing a helmet. For more information on the bicycle helmet law and bicycle safety tips, go to www.mass.gov/highwaysafe.

"If you get caught wearing your helmet, you'll get a gift certificate for either ice cream, French fries, or a hamburger, courtesy of McDonald's, Burger King, or Friendly's. If you don't have a helmet on, the police department will provide you with one," said Officer Welch. The Tewksbury Police Department was awarded 40 bike helmets as part of a 2011 statewide bicycle safety program of the Executive Office of Public Safety and Security.

"The police department would like to thank the local business for supporting of efforts to keep the children of Tewksbury safe. This is only one, of many events to come, in which the Tewksbury Police Department will be working with local businesses to help make Tewksbury a safer community...

"For more information or to get involved, please contact Officer Jennie Welch (978) 851-7373, Extension 230."

MOVIES from S-2

right mix of action, humor, and special effects that bring this popular animated series to life on the big screen - and in 3D.

The new movie was made by most of the same people involved with the earlier ones (Megan Fox is gone), and they all have apparently hit their stride with this entry. What was once loud and chaotic has become stripped down, exciting and funny in "Dark of the Moon," which begins by working in actual events in history - it claims that, in addition to being the first men on the moon, Buzz Aldrin and Neal Armstrong were also on a secret mission to investigate the discovery of one of the Transformers ships - and then shifts into a battle for control of Earth between the bad transformers and good transformers, assisted by Shia LaBeouf's character of Sam.

This time Frances McDormand is along for the ride, playing the no-nonsense director of national intelligence.

Julie White and Kevin Dunn return as Sam's bossy parents, along with John Turturro (revealing the half-crazy portrayal of an agent he hinted at in the earlier films. This time the young romance featured is between Sam and Rosie Huntington-Whiteley, replacing Fox.

Even the robots have heart this time, displaying a wide range of emotions even as they are transforming (there's a great sequence when Sam is rescued, in slow motion, by a transformer that turns into a very safe car to rest in).

The film's explosive finale is staged in Chicago, and worth the price of admission. The action in "Dark of the Moon" is clear and it doesn't feel like an assault because it's broken up with humor, romance and a little mystery - exactly what a summer movie should be.

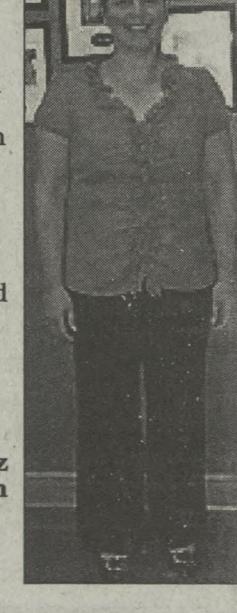

"The improvements to the trails will increase accessibility for residents and visitors alike - with the creation of street connections from the Kurchian Woods to the Wood End Elementary School, the town forest, and the Ipswich River Greenway."

Down 31 pounds and 5% body fat

After two children and ten years behind a desk all day, I was 60 pounds overweight and three years into a gym membership that I never used, when I saw the ads for GISFW in the local paper. Currently I am down 31 pounds and 5% body fat in only 3 months. The team works to keep me on track through informative emails and regular weigh-ins. I'm excited to start the second half of my journey with the wonderful owners and trainers at my GISFW.

Friends of Reading Recreation

is once again proud to sponsor Boating at Spot Pond in Stoneham and Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield.

Boating passes can be obtained from the Reading Library. Check out the library website: www.readingpl.org and click on museum passes. The Spot Pond Boating Pass is listed here and can be signed out online. The pass is good at Lake Quannapowitt as well as Spot Pond. The two locations have different schedules, please refer to the website below for schedules. You can also sign out the pass by calling the library or stopping at the front desk.

Please note:

The pass is good for kayaks, canoes, row boats and paddle boats. The pass CAN NOT be used for sailing.

The pass is limited to two uses per family over the course of the boating season (May through October). This is to provide maximum usage throughout the town. If you have used your two times, you can however, call the library for same day usage. For example, Joe has used the pass two times and would like to go again. On Tuesday morning he calls the library to see if the pass is being used that day. If not, Joe can use it.

Children under 15 must be supervised by an adult who is on the water with the children. NO EXCEPTIONS!

The Spot Pond Boating season continues until mid-September (see website for dates as they differ for Spot Pond & Lake Quannapowitt.)

Check out the website at www.boatinginboston.com for complete schedule and usage information.

Komarek, fellow SENIOR DEFENDER MICHELLE BENJAMIN (READING, MASS.), SENIOR FORWARD SARAH KOHN (WINCHES-TER, MASS.), junior defender Julie Pesta (Oxford, Pa.), sophomore defender Britney Ryan (Highlands Ranch, Colo.), and sophomore forward Chelsea Campbell (Surrey, British Columbia) were also selected to the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) Winter All-Academic Team. Senior tri-captain defender Alexa Guglielmi (Rocky Hill, Conn.) was chosen to represent Trinity women's ice hockey on the NESCAC Winter All-Sportsmanship Team. In addition, Komarek received an NCAA certificate in June as Trinity's nominee for the NCAA Women of the Year Award. Each student-athlete selected to the NESCAC All-Academic Team must be a junior or a senior starter or key reserve for a varsity team and maintain at least a 3.35 grade-point average. Benjamin and Komarek are each two-time, NESCAC All-Academic selections.

Trinity, coached by Andrew McPhee (9th Season), finished with an 18-4-4 record, and advanced to the NESCAC Championship Tournament for the sixth time and the fifth year in a row. The Bantams defeated Hamilton, 3-1, in the NESCAC Quarterfinals but lost, 4-3, in overtime against Amherst at Middlebury in the NESCAC Semifinals.

Benjamin, the College's salutatorian this spring, appeared in 19 games on the Bantam back line in 2010-11. She completed her Bantam career with one goal and 10 assists in 70 games. A graduate of Reading Memorial High School, Benjamin graduated from Trinity in May with a degree in mathematics. She is the daughter of Nancy and Roy Benjamin.

Kohn had four goals and three assists for seven points in 20 games this winter, and completed her Bantam career with 16 goals and 22 helpers for 38 points in 97 games. An alum of the Rivers School, Kohn graduated in May with a degree in economics. She is the daughter of Cynthia and Rick Kohn.

HazMat Route.

From S-1

In 2009, the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration ("FMCSA"), in response to a formal request for determination filed by the American Trucking Association and the then Massachusetts Department of Highways (now, MassDOT), issued a preemption determination finding that the City of Boston's hazmat route/process violated federal routing requirements because it had not followed the federal risk analysis criteria for hazmat routing or been subject to public comment and approval. The FMCSA directed the City to conduct a risk analysis on alternative hazmat routes and follow federal law on public participation and routing agency approval.

The routing evaluation and report prepared by the City of Boston concludes that travel through Boston imposes a greater risk to the public than an I-93/I-95 route. Under the proposed routing designation, the City of Boston would prohibit the use of City streets in the downtown area for the "through" transportation of Non-Radioactive Hazardous Materials ("NRHM") where there is neither a point of origin nor destination within the City of Boston.

The proposal would designate I-93/I-95 as the prescribed through route over which such NRHM approaching Boston is to be transported.

Within Boston, only shipments to destinations/points of origin located within the City would be permissible, provided the motor carrier applies for and receives a permit from the City.

As the designated state routing agency, MassDOT must review the proposed routing analysis to ensure that it meets the FMSCA routing criteria. Those criteria include, among others, population density, type of highway, type of hazardous material, emergency response capabilities, consultation with affected persons, proximity to schools, hospitals, playgrounds and other sensitive areas, terrain considerations, continuity of routes, alternative routes, effects on commerce, delays in transportation, climatic considerations, and congestion and accident history.

In recent weeks, Mayor Menino has pointed to the fiery crash of a tanker on Route 1 in Saugus (which killed the driver and sent flames soaring an estimated 100 feet into the air) as an example for the need to keep these hazardous materials tankers out of Boston.

"Every study we've seen says those trucks should not be going through the neighborhoods of Boston," Menino told WBZ TV 4 on July 25.

But groups and officials in the suburbs that would be affected by such a route are pushing back.

Statements made by members of the 128 Business Council (which runs shuttle buses for commuters to office parks along the highway) this week oppose a haz-mat route that would add an estimated 317 tanker trucks onto area highways each day.

Several state legislators have penned the following letter to Massachusetts Transportation Secretary Jeffrey Mullan, expressing dismay over the rerouting of these haz-mat shipments through suburbs outside of Boston:

Dear Secretary Mullan,

As legislators representing communities adjacent to Route 128, we are writing to express our concern over the proposed shifting or rerouting of hazardous materials trucks from Boston's North End neighborhood streets into suburban neighborhood streets.

The entire stretch of Route 128 is already extremely congested and overburdened with traffic. According to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, the stretch of Route 128 from Route 3 in Burlington through Waltham alone currently hosts 200,000 cars and trucks each day, well over its capacity of 150,000.

Furthermore, this stretch of Route 128 abuts the Cambridge Reservoir, which is utilized as drinking water. Increasing congestion, pollution, and potential hazards to the Reservoir is inherently irresponsible. Diverting an average of 317 trucks a day from Boston will further intensify Route 128's traffic congestion issues through the heart of the western suburbs.

"The results of the Battelle Memorial Institute study, commissioned by the City of Boston, recommend that hazardous cargoes be rerouted out of Boston as a matter of public safety. While we understand the issue of protecting Boston residents and neighborhoods, we don't feel that rerouting hazmat trucks through our suburban communities is the answer.

"Suburban streets already face increased traffic as a result of daily backlogs on Route 128, with commuters choosing to cut through neighborhood streets to avoid long highway backups.

"Just as Boston officials are opposed to trucks carrying chemicals and gas through their neighborhoods, we are opposed to these cargoes traveling through our neighborhoods when highway congestion brings traffic to a standstill.

"Although the safety of every community and its constituents is always on the forefront of every elected official's mind, we do not feel that diverting hazardous materials trucks from Boston to Route 128 is the answer. We respectfully request that further thought be given to this issue, which will affect our communities and already overtaxed roadways."

Signs and symptoms that might indicate cancer

Cancer is a disease so complex that even the most veteran of cancer researchers cannot fully explain the disease. Progress toward the diagnosis and treatment of cancer continues to be made, but there's still no telling if an individual will or won't get this potentially deadly disease.

One of the many things the medical community can say with certainty regarding cancer is that treatment is most effective when the cancer is found early. Melanoma skin cancer, for instance, can be easily removed if it's detected early and has not grown into the skin. In fact, the five-year survival rate, which indicates the percentage of people who live at least five years after diagnosis, for those whose melanoma skin cancer is detected early enough to remove the melanoma is nearly 100 percent. However, if that melanoma has already spread to other parts of the body by the time it's detected, the five-year survival rate is below 20 percent.

While the disparity between survival rates is not as severe for all cancers as it is for melanoma skin

Chicken Breast Sorrento

Chefs looking to get started on their next mouthwatering culinary creation can consider this recipe for Chicken Breast Sorrento, courtesy of Pomi.

Chicken Breast Sorrento

2 whole chicken breasts, skinned

1 cup water

1 1/2 cups Pomi, strained

1 small onion

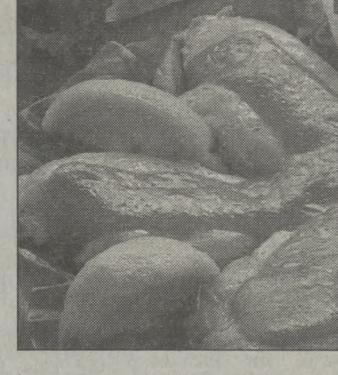

1 small carrot

3 tablespoons olive oil

Juice of one lemon

Salt and pepper

Lettuce for garnish

Simmer chicken breasts in water, tightly covered, with 1/4 teaspoon salt, onion and carrot until tender (about 1/2 hour), adding water if necessary. Cool, drain, remove bones and slice breasts. Mix the lemon juice with olive oil, 1/4 teaspoon salt, pepper and Pomi. Pour a small portion of the sauce onto a platter, place the sliced chicken breasts on top and pour the remaining sauce over the chicken. Garnish with lettuce.

cancers, early detection is still imperative when it comes to beating cancer. Part of the reason cancer is not always detected early is that it doesn't always make its presence felt until it has already reached an advanced stage. Pancreatic cancer, for instance, does not usually cause any noticeable symptoms in its early stages. Instead, the first noticeable signs of pancreatic cancer can be back or belly pain. At this point, the cells in the pancreas have grown and begun to press on nearby nerves and organs. While these might be the first signs of pancreatic cancer, by this point the cancer is typically at an advanced stage.

Still, knowing the signs and symptoms of cancer is a great way for men and women to catch the disease early when it's most treatable. Though the following signs and symptoms are not always indicative of cancer, their presence should be enough for adults to consult their physicians.

* Fatigue: Extreme tiredness that does not improve even with ample rest could be a sign that cancer is growing. In certain cancers, including leukemia, this happens in the early stages. In addition, some colon or stomach cancers cause blood loss, which can result in fatigue.

* Pain: Early on, bone cancers or testicular cancer often manifest themselves through pain. Back pain can be a symptom of ovarian cancer or cancer of the colon or rectum. Unfortunately, when pain is a result of cancer, the cancer has already begun to metastasize.

* Unexplained weight loss: One of the first signs of cancer might be the unexplained loss of 10 pounds or more. This is most common with cancers of the pancreas, stomach, esophagus, or lung.

* Skin changes: Cancers of the skin and other cancers can cause certain changes in the skin. Jaundice, when the skin and eyes turn a yellowish color, is one such change. The skin can also redden, itch or darken, a condition known as hyperpigmentation. Excessive hair growth on the skin is another skin change that might indicate the presence of cancer.

only 33.3 percent by mammography.

Some also argue that the radiation present during mammograms may contribute to gene mutations that can contribute to cancer itself.

In 1992, a Canadian National Breast Screening Study found that women in their 40s are actually more likely to die of breast cancer after they receive a decade of annual mammograms than women who do not start getting mammograms until after age 50.

Mammography benefits questioned

In recent years many leading health organizations have advised that all women age 40 and up have an annual mammogram or be tested every two years for the presence of breast cancer. Women with a higher risk for the disease may have been told to get bi-annual mammograms. There are some people who feel that this blanket recommendation is ill-advised.

Roughly 15 years ago, mammograms were only recommended for women age 50 and older and then only every 3 years. However, new findings and higher incidences of breast cancer in women in their 40s has prompted the switch in screening recommendations. Is the switch safe and advisable? Some professionals say no.

Mammograms remain a viable way to detect breast cancer in the body, but others say that MRIs and other imaging are more effective, albeit more expensive. A 2004 Canadian study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association concluded that MRIs were more sensitive and more specific in detecting small breast cancers than mammograms, ultrasounds or clinical breast exams. The study found that screening by MRI detected 79.5 percent of invasive breast cancer, compared to
